It is almost as if the extraordinary wonders of the Great Exhibition were literally on wheels, and coming to your door. The very best and most memorable of that GREAT WORLD SPECTACLE is preserved in the "Columbian Album"

of large and beautifully finished half-tone photo-engravings of

SCENES FROM THE EXHIBITION.

Its palatial Buildings, lovely Landscapes, Waterviews, Statuary and Fountains; Marvels of Art and Science; Mechanical and Industrial Wonders; Scenes of Foreign Life. All that was most wonderful and alluring, and best worth commemorating.

These are no ordinary engravings, but the best that combined artistic judgment and the highest expert skill could procure.

We know our readers will agree with us that nothing more perfectly artistic and satisfactory can be found in the whole range of souvenir publications. We are issuing this superb album

One part every week. 16 engravings in each part. Every one a work of art. For one coupon and ten cents.

Each engraving is accompanied by a clear, concise and comprehensive description of the subject shown. Parts one, two, three, four, five and six may be obtained at one time by sending coupon and 60 cents.

WHY SUCH A SCARE?

IS IT A GUILTY CONSCIENCE THAT CAUSES SUCH A FRIGHT OVER COXEY?

Why is it That Men on Foot are so Much More Formidable than Men on Pullman Cars?---What Does it all Mean?

(Spec. to THE CAUCASIAN.)

Washington, D. C., April 30.—"The wicked flee when none pursueth." It is interesting to witness the cowardliness of this administration and the officials in authority in Washington over the news that a few hundred unarmed and peaceful citizens are marching to Washington on foot, preferring this mode of travel to riding in Pullman palace cars. The Chief of Police and the District Commissioners have become panic-stricken on account of the approach of these men within the District of Columbia. The Sargeants-at-Arms of the House of Representatives and Senate are trembling like the aspen from fright, Cleveland and his Cabinet are frightened almost out of their senses on account of the visit of these unemployed men. Nearly three hundred extra policemen have been appointed to make places and give employment for relatives and friends of Democrants Senators and Members of Congress. All of the entrances to the Capitol building are closed except the four main ones. The public galleries of the Senate and House are closed to those who cannot pass a prescribed police inspection. A large number of extra detectives are on duty, mingling with visitors, to find out if there are any of Coxey's followers around. The other day the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows, which met in this city, was not allowed to pass along in procession the paths and carriage ways of the Capitol grounds with their banners bearing the insignia of the three-linked order of Friendship, Love, and Truth. They were met at the approaches to the grounds and ordered by the police to desist from passing through. This is the first time in the history of this free nation that peaceful citizens have been refused the permission to pass through the grounds of their nation's Capitol.

What would the spirit of Washington, Adams, Jackson and others say to this Democcatic autocracy prohibiting a free people in a free country passing over this highway for which our forefathers gave their lives?

The Secretary of the Treasury has ordered extra locks and bars to be placed on the Treasury vaults, and guards armed with rifles, pistols and clubs keep watch over that building. No person is allowed to enter within the walls of the Treasury building with any suspicious looking bundle on their person. The White House is already guarded front and rear by fifteen Metropolitan police, while on the inside are a corps of detectives in citizens clothes. The Secretary of War has ordered the cavalry companies to move out from the city into Maryland. He explained that it was to give men and animals recreation. They move and camp on the road over which Coxey's army is expected to enter the city. He has also ordered guns from the various arsenals to be shipped to Washington.

The question arises, what does all this mean? The answer is plain. A few unarmed men, as peaceful citizens, have seen cause to march to Washington on foot, There is no evidence that this body of citizens have ever made any threat against the Government, Congress or any of the citizens of the District of Columbia. It is yet to be reported that these men have robbed a single hen-roost or a pig-pen on their march. They have paid their way like honest men whenever it has been required of them.

With these facts known why should the Democratic administration feel such deep concern? If they have committed no offense toward these men, why such alarm? They are not marching with a red flag flaunting as a symbol of anarchism, nor are they armed with dynamite. They are marching along under the emblem of freedom—the stars and stripes.

The oldest inhabitants say that this Democratic scare-crow reminds them of the stirring times of 1861, when the country was on the verge of civil war. Then there was cause to be afraid; but now there is none. A guilty conscience needs no accuser "To your tents oh! Israel." J. M.

ZEB VANCE IS DEAD.

(Edward Oldham. in Washington Post.)

How strange the sound! Undying is his name,
Immortal is his memory; they came
A product of his own, his native soil.
Revered and loved by every son of toil.
Zeb Vance! The very name is honor's own;
Its loyalty into all hearts has grown;
No other titled name, in honor's ken
Could e'er supplant this simple cognomen.

His name was synonyma for hope and song,
For cheer and laughter, and truth so strong;
The pet, the idol, of the Old North State—
A heartful man, whom none could ever hate.
A sterling, gen'rous-hearted friend,
Sincere and honest, faithful to the end.
But now, 'tis true, that o'er his restful bed
His native pines will whisper: "He is dead."

'Neath Heaven's great rotunda, laid in state,
Will lie this honest man—so true, so great,
And o'er him nature's obsequies will roll,
And chant a requiem for his noble soul.
In many a little school-house, by the way,
When lessons shall have ended for the day,
The pedagogue, with awe, will bow his head,
And tell the children that "Zeb Vance is dead."

And home, with voices hushed and awed, they'll go,
And tell, with wondering, the news they know;
The very cow-bells catch the strain so dread,
And slowly dole the news: "Zeb Vance is dead."
And when his life's good angel shall have brought Him safely to the paradise he sought,
And led him to the threshold of the gate,
Not long the servant of his State will wait.

Nor Governor, nor Senator will be
The signal or the rank of his decree;
But loud hosannas, "Welcome, welcome home,"
And loud the welkin ring, "Zeb Vance is come!"

JUDGE JAMES K. HINES.

What Tom Watson Says of This Jeffersonian Democrat.

Last week THE CAUCASIAN published the announcement of Judge Hines, of Georgia, that he would no longer affiliate with the Democratic party—a party that betrayed the people, deserted the principles of democracy and gone over to the monopolies to rob the people. Our readers will be interested in what Tom Watson says of Judge Hines in his paper. We give it below in full:

Our friends will be encouraged to know that Judge Hines will take the stump in our behalf during the approaching campaign. He is a close thinker, trained debater and strong reasoner, and will carry to every word he says the force of an unblemished character.

When the farmers announced their Ocala Platform, Judge Hines was one of the few professional men who gave it his hearty endorsement.

In a correspondence with Hon. O. H. P. Bell, of Washington county, he sustained our principles with force and without equivocation, at a time when he must have known that he was jeopardizing the brilliant future which opened before him in the Democratic party.

At that time Judge Hines lived on his farm near Sandersville, in Washington county.

He had made a splendid record as a lawyer, as Solicitor-General, and, later, as Judge of the Superior courts of the Middle circuit he established a wide reputation for the diligence. the ability, and the integrity with which he discharged the duties of that position.

In 1890 Judge Hines was a candidate for the United States Senate, on the Alliance platform, against Gen. John B. Gordon, but failed of election because of the want of concentration among the Reformers.

For the last two years Judge Hines has been living in Atlanta, and has built up a large practice. He is in the prime of life; is level-headed, conservative, strong and fearless, and has a range of personal friendships second to that of no man in the State.

Possessing as he does the confidence and esteem of so many professional and business men in the towns and cities, and having at the same time the confidence and esteem of the country people, among whom the greater part of his life has been spent, his speeches in this campaign for better laws and better government will carry immense weight and do immense good.

THE ALLIANCE AS AN EDUCATOR.

We take pleasure in reproducing and endorsing the following from the editorial columns of Living Issues, the Organ of the State Alliance of Georgia:

No other organization has done so much to educate the people as the alliance. But for the work of this great organization the great mass of people would know very little of the cause of the present condition of our country.

This order has gone into the political questions and it has exposed the treachery and rottenness of our public men to such an extent that the people are beginning to awaken to their awful condition. They are beginning to realize that they are in the hands of a heartless cruel money power that can bankrupt the government itself in forty-eight hours.

All this unearthing has been accomplished through the alliance and its advocates.

Now, the question is shall this school house be kept up and the education of the people continued? There are thousands of things yet to unearth. The alliance can unearth them in an organized capacity. Unorganized the work ceases.

The alliance is the author of the great reform movement which is spreading like wildfire all over the country, but if we wish to see the reform movement succeed we must keep up the academy in which the lessons are delivered and conclusions reached. If you let the fountain cease to do its work the rivers will soon run dry. It matters not what your political faith may be you are interested in the fight for a more just and equitable distribution of the wealth which you produce and for this reason should belong to the order and sustain it.

In your political enthusiasm don't forget the great order that first led you to see the light.

Build up your sub-alliances. Get all the farmers in your county to come into it. Make it a social order as well as a school of political science.

THE SOUTH STILL FEEDING THE COW.

While the North and East Still does the Milking.---It is Now Just as it Was Under Republican Rule.

The Southern Democrats are allowed only forty odd per cent, of representation in their national conventions, but in the Electoral College they carry upwards of sixty per cent.

In other words, when it comes to mapping out the Democratic platform and policies the Southern Democrats are in a hopeless minority; but when a Democratic President is elected the South has to do the work.

How singular it is that Southern gentlemen should be satisfied with a situation in which they have to elect the President, but are absolutely powerles to dictate principles and policies!

The South does the work, and the North and the East reap the harvest.

This fact alone, when generally known, will convince the South that it ought to get out of the Democratic party.—Hickory Murcory.

DR. THOMPSON AT MANTEO.

He Entertained One of the Biggest Crowds that Ever Assembled in Dare County.---Let the Old Soldiers Build the Vance Monument.

(Special to THE CAUCASIAN)

Dare County, April 23, '94.

Mr. Editor—Saturday 21st inst. Dr. Cyrus Thompson, Lecturer Farmers' Alliance for N. C., addressed the citizens at the court house for 2 hours or more. After being introduced in few remarks by Mr. J B. Hancock, County Superintendent of Education, the Dr. opened his discourse, and for the time specified he held his audience spell bound; and by the way I heard a gentleman say that the turn out was the largest gathering here for many years. Is not that an indication of sentiment? And had it been generally known that the speaking was to come off at 4 p. m. instead of 11 a. m. the crowd would have been greater still, but knowing the difficulty of reaching Swan Quarter from here we did not dare to change the hour, but to show you the eagerness of the people to hear him, those who came at the appointed hour 11 a. m. remained, hoping that he would show up after a while. It was fully 1 p. m. when the Dr. arrived from East Lake. Our horses and buggies consist of boats, and we have to get about best we can, trusting to the wind. However, all passed off nicely, and I think you can safely count on Dare. Our people are sorely cast down and oppressed that the beloved Vance has parted from and paid man's last debt. Mr. Editor, how would it do for every ex-confederate to contribute 10 or 25 cents towards erecting a monument to his memory? He did for his N. C. soldiers what no other Governor did, and they knew and were aware of it at the time, and it should make no difference how much any one else might desire to contribute, refuse any other than a true N. C. soldier to this special act. Let it be our pride, irrespective of politics, and let us be selfish enough to do what is done, and let it be known as the ex-confederate soldiers monument to the memory of our beloved War Gov., Z. B. Vance, the immortal.

THREE RESOLUTIONS FROM MECKLENBURG.

Senator Vance.---Fair Elections.---The County Convict Tax.

[Special to THE CAUCASIAN.]

Davidson, N. C., April 21, '94.

Mr. Editor—At a mass meeting of the people of Dewise township, the following resolutions were proposed and adopted:

Resolved, 1st, As citizens of Dewise township in mass meeting, assembled at Davidson, that we sincerely regret the death of Senator Z. B. Vance, the honest Senator and friend of the people.

Resolved, 2nd, That while we say this of our departed friend, we take this occasion to say that we most heartily endorse his stand in the Senate on the question of free silver.

Resolved, 3rd, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to THE CAUCASIAN and People's paper of Charlotte, N. C.

Another resolution was then introduced.

Resolved, 1st, That we deplore any unfairness or fraud or trickery at the ballot box, that would in any way prevent an honest man from his vote, whether white or black, as it is a high privilege and sacred duty given by the constitution of the U. S.

Resolved, 2nd, Whereas, we, the citizens of Mecklenburg county, State of N. C., are burdened with high taxes; and whereas, that part of our tax known as the convict tax, very materially increases our burden of taxation; and whereas, this fund (convict fund) is used EXCLUSIVELY for the benefit of Charlotte township; therefore, be it known, that we the citizens of Dewise township, Mecklenburg Co., N. C., do protest against any further levy of a convict tax in our county, unless however, a fair and just proportion of the work be done on our public roads in each and every township in the county.

Resolved, 3rd, That a copy of resolutions be sent to THE CAUCASIAN for publication.

"I AM A DMOCRAT."

The signs of physical life consist in the functional performance of a part, or all, of the five senses, while death consists in the absence of activity in these evidences of life. A man's sight goes out, taste and smell depart, hearing is hushed in silence, and at last all sense of touch forsakes him, and he is a corpse.

This is today the condition of the once honorable and honored Democratic party. Its eyes are blinded by partisan prejudices, its organs of taste and smell are destroyed by constant contact with frauds and corruption, its hearing is stopped by the concussion of broken promises, while its feeling is squeezed out of it by unjust and oppressive laws. This once great and powerful party is dead. It came to a violent death at its own hand. The long silence has been painful, but now the mourners go about the streets chanting its ancient virtues. while the names of Jefferson and Jackson are heard in the funeral dirge. The political sorcerers are at work on its lifeless form with vain efforts to reasscitate it, while the mourners are commanded to shout, "I am a Democrat!" But alas! how art the mighty fallen. It will take Gabriel's trumpet to awake this the dead. By this time it stinketh in the nostrils of the people. There is nothing left of it except the smell of brimstone and Wall street. Now let John Sherman, John Carlisle, Benjamin Harrison, Grover Cleveland, Matt Ransom and Cabot Lodge be appointed pall bearers, that "our dead may be buried out of our sight;" that time which is a great healer, may restore our broken hearts and fortunes.—Greenville Reformer.

HE IS A DEMOCRAT.

PRESIDENT ELIOT, OF HARVARD UNIVERSITY, SO DECLARES HIMSELF.

A Powerful Statement of His Political Principles.

[National Democrat, 19th Oct. 1889.]

Before a great company assembled at the regular dinner of the Bay State Club in Boston on Saturday evening last, President Eliot, of Harvard University, announced that he had joined the Democratic party. We give his remarks:

"As president of Harvard University, I find myself in this campaign in a position of singular partiality. (Laughter.) The Presidents of both political conventions, the gentlemen who wrote both platforms, and both candidates for the governorship are graduates of Harvard College. (Laughter and applause.) I have received lately a good deal of gratuitous advice through the public prints as to the dire consequences which might befall Harvard University if its president should publicly join the Democratic party, but I am happy to say that the benefactors and supportors of Harvard College belong to both parties and to all religions. (Prolonged applause.) Moreover, the graduates of Harvard College respect any man, no matter to what party he belongs, who forms his opinions intelligently, expresses them with moderation and has the courage of his convictions. (Great applause.)

"If I were called upon to indicate those qualities which the graduates of Harvard generally condemn in public men, I should say they were lack of candor in the expression of political opinions and political cowardice. (Tremendous applause.) These faults, I believe, the vast majority of the graduates of Harvard College emphatically condemn (applause) whether they observe them in their own comrades or in others.

"But I present myself to you, gentlemen, as a case of some interest to practical politicians. I believe that, as practical politicians, what you desire and need is to convert a few thousand voters in Massachusetts, and in a few of the other States, from the Republican to the Democratic party. (Laughter.) Now that is just what has been effected in my case (apppause) and my reasons for changing my party may possibly be influential with others.

HIS REASONS FOR CHANGING.

"I have always been independent in politics in two senses: In the first place there may perhaps be 2,000,000 of Americans who have some expectations of public office, or vague desire for public employment; but there are 58,000,000 who have no such expectation or desire, and who know that if they wanted public employment they could not get it. (Laughter.) I belong, gentlemen, to those 58,000,000. (Laughter and applause.) And I am independent in politics in another sense. I will stay in a political party only so long as that party stands for the political principles which I believe in. (Great applause.)

"Now, the Republican party has a great past. It was formed for the advancement of a great moral idea, and it did advance that idea, and carried it to triumph. And so lasting is the force of a sound moral purpose, that thousands still cling to that party because of its past history, although its actual leaders have forgotten its noble birth, abandoned its disinterested principles and deserted the standards of its founders. When I found that the Republican party no longer stood for the political principles in which I believe, I felt obliged to join the opposite party. (Great applause.)

"No intelligent man will place any reliance upon the professions of a party when its public performances incessantly contradict them. (Applause.) We must rely upon the public acts of the men who represent the respective parties.

"But the issues on which I change are national ones, and we are frequently asked in the public press what have these things to do with a State election. That seems to me to be a very foolish inquiry. (Laughter and applause.) A State election is a marshalling of the forces, and it affords an excellent opportunity for public debate (laughter and applause), for such debate as our candidate for governor conducted a year ago, and is about to conduct again, in the presence of the people of the Commonwealth."

The above clipping from the National Democrat has been sent us by a life-long Democrat with a request to publish. We don't know his object, but we are indeed glad to publish it. It is just the doctrine that THE CAUCASIAN is preaching. Notice that President Eliot says that the Republican party has a great past, but that it had deserted the great principles of Lincoln and that therefore he left it. He said he would not stay in any political party any longer than it represented the principles he believed in. He should now leave the Democratic party for the same reasons that he left the Republican party in 1889. See what a hard lick he hits the State campaign idea of the Democrats of 1894.

The Free Will Baptist, published at Ormondsville, has enlarged from six to seven columns to the page. We are pleased to note at this evidence of its prosperity.

NOTES FROM A SERMON.

Rev. Alderman Talks About South Carolina.---He is Ashamed of his Party and Don't Know How He will Vote Next Time.

The Concord Standard (Dem.) publishes the following report of a sermon delivered in Concord. Rev. Mr. Alderman is a native of Sampson county and was a school-mate of the editor of THE CAUCASIAN at Salem High school. We take pleasure in reproducing the sermon as given by the Standard:

Sunday night at the Baptist church, Rev. J. O. Alderman preached from the text found in 3rd chapter of Titus: "Put them in mind to be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates, to be ready to every good work."

There are some things which are not wrong, yet if to do them is contrary to law, we should not do them.

We ought to obey the civil law whatever that law may be.

God is no anarchist. He is not lawless. Christ taught to obey law.

It is true he broke the rule of the Pharisees about washing of hands but they were not the ruling people. Christ never broke a civil Roman law. Christ paid tax. You remember how he got the money. He says: "Render to Cæzar the things which are Cæzar's and to God the things which are God's."

My text is suggested by the late South Carolina matter. Four years ago the opinion of the people down there changed somehow or other. One set of men went out of office, another went in. The first set got mad and did't want to obey law. The former set were town people; the latter country people. The fight is city vs. country.

The people wanted prohibition and voted for a legislature which passed the dispensary law forbidding the sale of liquor by the citizens. This made the town people mad and they said they wouldn't stand it, they wouldn't obey the law and that is the keynote of the whole affair. Darlington wanted to sell whiskey and do as she pleased. The Governor appointed constables to go there and stop this violation of law.

But the hot-heads wouldn't obey. Even the sheriff shielded the law-breakers. The people got guns and began to curse. As the constables were getting ready to leave they had a fight but got whipped. Both sides shot and both got men shot. Both sides were murderous. The constables took to the woods; the people went after them to kill them. They sent to Tillman for protection. He called out the troops and war was declared.

There are no classes of men. God never did make classes of men. He never made lords and serfs, a kind to rule and the kind to be slaved. In South Carolina town people concluded that they were the rulers as they were rich and educated. I am sorry for them. It was time for them to learn a lesson. No one people hold God's patent right on all things.

The South Carolinians thought because they are bon-tons they could do as they pleased. The North Carolina newspapers say that Tillman is a hydro-headed tiger, a part of pandemonium, the quintessence of all that's mean, because he happens to be a populist and not a democrat. I'm not a populist, but I am ashamed of what my party is doing. I have always been a democrat, but I don't know whether I shall ever vote it again or not. See the abuse, the lies, the false reports our papes sent out. The papers are getting so they can't tell the truth.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE VANCE MEMORIAL MEETING HELD AT RICHLANDS, ONSLOW COUNTY, N. C., APRIL 21st, 1894.

Pursuant to notice previously given a meeting of the citizens of Richlands was held on 21st April, 1894, for the purposes expressed:

On motion of E. L. Franck, Jr., the meeting was organized by electing J. H. Foy, chairman, F. D. Koonce, Jr., and F. L. Ives, secretaries. These gentlemen having assumed the office assigned them, the chairman thereupon explained the object of the meeting in a timely and well chosen discourse on the life and character of Senator Vance.

On motion of E. L. Franck, Jr., a committee of five persons was appointed by the chair to draft suitable resolutions. The following gentlemen were selected, to-wit: F. D. Koonce, J. W. Mills, T. T. James, E. L. Franck, Jr., J. F. Cox. The committee having retired and performed the work assigned them, returned and through F. D. Koonce submitted the following resolutions which were adopted unanimously by a rising vote:

The people of Richlands, Onslow county, having heard with profound grief the mournful intelligence that Senator Z. B. Vance has departed this life, and desiring in common with the people in different sections of our country to give a public expression of our sorrow, have met and passed the following resolutions:

First—That we sincerely lament the death of Senator Vance, and truly sympathize in the general feeling of sorrow which is manifested throughout our State and country, over the loss of a statesman and patriot of such exalted character and abilities.

Second—That for his devotion to the interest and honor of the people during a long course of public service, we are reminded of his virtues, and we will cherish his memory in our hearts.

Third—That in the death of Senator Vance a name has been stricken from the roll of our distinguished living men, who have given renown to our government and shed a lustre upon our institutions

Fourth—That while we bow in humble faith to this dispensation of an Allwise Providence, who hath seen fit thus to afflict our country, we tender our christian sympathy to the immediate friends and family of our distinguished and faithful public servant.

Fifth—That a copy of these resolutions be sent to THE CAUCASIAN, New Berne Journal and Onslow Blade for publication.

Eulogies of exceeding beauty and pathos on the life, character and public services of Senator Vance were delivered by the following persons: F. D. Koonce, T. T. James, E. L. Franck, Jr., D. E. Sandlin, F. L. Ives and J. W. Mills.

On motion of E. L. Franck, Jr., the meeting adjourned sine die.

J. H. Foy, Chairman.

F. D. Koonce, Jr., F. L. Ives, Secretaries.

CAPT. J. B. LLOYD

WRITES A LETTER IN REPLY TO THE MESSENGER.

He Challenges that Paper to Defend the Record of the Democratic Party.---The Democracy of Jefferson and the Modern Polyglot Contrasted.

TARBORO, N. C., April 21, '94.

EDITOR CAUCASIAN:

Recently I wrote a communication to the Wilmington (N. C.) Messenger, and asked that paper some questions relative to the inaction and faithlessness of the Democratic party. The editor kindly favored me by giving publication to the article, and then studiously proceeded to evade every question that I propounded, but concluded by saying that he would not give me further hearing. However, the very able and erudite editor, wrote a long, tedious and windy editorial on matters which were not in the least relevant to the queries I put to him.

Of course he could not defend the Democratic party for its reckless disregard of the will and wishes of the people who gave it control of the government, and therefore the Messenger, eschewed a discussion of the party's disobedience to the mandates of the people, from whom it derived its power.

The Messenger says that this writer is "ignorant of Democracy." Well, that may be, according to the standard of measurement of "Democracy" of the present day, but I believe in and advocate Jeffersonian democracy. I will contrast Jefferson's democracy with that of to-day and see if comparisons are not indeed odious.

Thomas Jefferson, the great apostle of liberty, believed that "all men are created free and equal;" in "equal and exact justice to all men of whatever state or persuasion, religious or political."

He believed in a free ballot and an honest count (what does modern democracy say about ballot-stuffing?) He believed in "absolute acquiescence in the decision of the majority;" in "economy in public expenses that labor may be lightly burdened;" in "freedom of religion; freedom of the press; control of corporations of every character; free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver; opposition to banks; fostering agriculture pursuits." I have given, in brief, some of the essential fundamental principles of Jeffersonian democracy, and now I invite your readers to look at modern democratic principles and see if there is the slightest semblance to the principles as enunciated by the immortal "Father of Democracy." If the great Jefferson could appear here in the flesh he would not know the party he founded: for you can be a modern democrat and believe in a single gold standard; for or against silver; for or against national banks; for or against issuance of bonds; for or against revenue tariff; for or against protection; for or against, trusts, combines and monopolies; in fact there is no fixed standard of principles of the modern democracy, except office-seeking! Jefferson's hostility to banks, operated by private individuals and corporations, is well known. On September 11th, 1833, he wrote Mr Eppes as follows: "Bank paper must be suppressed, and the circulating medium must be restored to the nation to whom it belonga. It is the only fund on which they can rely for loans; it is the only resource which can never fail them, and it is an abundant one for every necessary purpose. Treasury bills, bottomed on taxes, bearing and not bearing interest, as may be found necessary, thrown into circulation, will take the place of so much gold and silver, which last, when crowded, will find an efflux in other countries, and thus keep up the quantum of medium at the salutary level."

Jefferson also said that "banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies," yet the modern democracy wants to increase the circulation of our present iniquitous national banks!

The Republican party, in 1873, demonetized silver, for which they received severe denunciations by the Democrats, yet the democracy of 1893 sanctions the gigantic crime of the Republicans, by expunging from the statute book every particle of legislation permitting the coinage of silver! Will the Messenger attempt to defend the democratic party of to-day? Indeed, the modern democracy, in betraying the people reminds me of what Emerson wrote. The great essayist said: "A political orator wittily compared our party promises to western roads, which opened stately enough, with planted trees on either side, to tempt the traveler, but soon become narrow and narrower, and ended in a squirrel-track, and ran up a tree."

The Democratic party started out on broad, just, humanitarian principles, but the party of to-day has narrowed until it has "run up a tree." But I should not be so severe on a party that has outlived its usefulness! Indeed, the party to-day is sans principles, sans measures, sans leaders, and sans everything. It has reached the last stage of life.

Time and Money.

A couple of bachelors were talking about their forlorn and undouble condition.

"Well," said one, "I should have married long ago, but I haven't had time enough to think about it."

"Time?" echoed the other, "Time? Well, if the adage is true that time is money, then I haven't had time enough, either," and they went on their lonely ways dejected and sad. —[Detroit Free Press.

OUR FIFTY CENT OFFER.

Populists who wish to carry North Carolina should be hustling to increase the circulation of this paper. If it can get the readers, it will make the votes. Our 50-cent offer to Nov. 15th is for this State only. Give us 25,000 readers and the State is ours. But there must be no delay. The reading, to be most effective should be done before fall. If you can't get a club of ten send as large a club as you can raise.

For over six months we have been calling on Col. Glenn to produce that free silver letter which he said during the last campaign he got from Cleveland. We have not been able to here from Mr. Glenn and had gotten apprehensive that some evil fate had befallen him. Last week our fearful suspense was put to an end. He wrote an order to his "revenue spies" telling them not enforce the law too much when it would hurt the Democratic party. We are glad to know that Col. Glenn is still alive. Now will he not tell us about that Cleveland letter. We will remind him again that Mr. Cleveland says HE did not write him such a letter. Who is wrong?

COXEY IN WASHINGTON.

Gen. J. S. Coxey reached Washington on last Sunday. He left Massillon, Ohio, on Easter Sunday in a blizzard. After five weeks of almost continual tramping over nearly 600 miles of country, after fording rivers, climbing mountains, and facing every variety of weather from sleet and snow to summer sun, and every kind of treatment from kindness and ovations to indignities and cruelties from the people along the route, the Coxey army yesterday reached the District of Columbia and went in camp at Brightwood Driving Park, just outside the city limits.

Miss Carolina, Gen. Coxey's daughter, will arrive from her home in Ohio, and, mounted on a white horse lead the army into Washington. It now remains to be seen whether the police of Washington will arrest Miss Carolina when she leads the army to the Capitol.

The Granville County Reformer says that Ex-Gov. now Senator Jarvis in a speech in Oxford during the lost campaign promised the people free coinage of silver, a speedy increase in the currency a radical reduction of taxation and that all the bad Republican laws should be repealed if the people would just give the Democratic party full control of the government. The Reformer also, says that Mr. Jarvis as a climax to his appeal, solemnly promised the people that if the Democratic party was given a chance and did not do this that he "would quit the Democratic party and take to the woods."

The Reformer now says that Jarvis must keep his promise or be drivin to the woods after the election.

THE RALEIGH HYPOCRITES.

We make the following extract from a private letter received from an Alliancemen of Wake county:

"I was and am perfectly disgusted with the hypocisy shown here by some men at Senator Vance's memorial meeting the day he lay in the State house, and also night before. You remember, I guess, the disgraceful treatment he received here last fall at the Fair by the Democrats. Governor Carr was necessarily absent from Raleigh and but few of the Democrats went out to hear him speak, and only a few even spoke to him afterwards. I was told by a person who remains at the depot that when he left he was at the depot and the Senator was very conspicuous for not having any one to talk to. The same 'fellows' who treated him so, were the first to put forth a hypocritical cant and 'laud him to the skies.' Mr. Montgomery, a lawyer in Raleigh, gave them, I hear, a vigorous drubbing in the memorial meeting on Monday night. He told them it was a shame and disgrace that he, Vance, should, after a lifetime of service to the people, be treated by the party he had saved and made in the manner he had been treated."

Coxey has named one of his camps "Andrew Jackson." Now let him name one for Thos. Jefferson to complete the list of "cranks."

THE DISGRACE HAS COME.

Mr. Cleveland in his letter to Chauncey F. Black refers to the duty of the party to perform its pledges, and says that a failure to do so involves degradation and disgrace.

Neither has Mr. Cleveland nor the Democratic party performed their pledges to the people, therefore, according to his own logic "degradation and disgrace" is the cap that fits their traitorous brow.

"A LAST INTERVIEW WITH SENATOR Z. B. VANCE."

Under the above heading Mr. J. P. Kerr, of Asheville, publishes what he claims to be an interview with Senator Vance just before his death. The following is the purported interview:

"The Senator then turned his face full upon me and asked: 'How is the Democracy in North Carolina?'

"I replied that political matters were more or less unsettled with us, waiting for the final action of congress upon questions now being discussed.

"The Senator lay perfectly still for a few moments, and I could see that his mind was at work, preparing words for his thoughts. Presently, raising both hands, and his eyes to mine at the same moment, he said:

"'The Democrat party is immortal. I have not recently arrived at this conclusion, but since I have been lying here on my back I have thought profoundly of many things, and among them this idea of my earliest manhood has become a steadfast conviction. For thirty years of my life I fought, as a Whig, the Democratic party and sometimes when it was overwhelmingly defeated I thought it could rise no more, but from its wrecks and disasters it would come forth more mighty than ever before and sweep away all opposition. The word Democrat stands for liberty and human freedom and cannot die. The people believe in it and when freedom is menaced and liberty jeopardized, at one blast of that magic name men will come from the mountains and from the valleys and place the Democratic party in power.

"'In the ancient days the little gladiator, with his simple shield and short sword would step in the arena before the assembled thousands. The fierce and raging lion would be turned in upon him. By his skill the mighty brute would be slain. Another monster would be turned in to meet the same fate. Another and another would follow only to go down beneath the apparently puny strength of the gladiator, until the people would cry 'he is a God, the supernatural is with him.' In some sort this represents the idea the American people have of Democracy. There is attached to the name a kind of supernatural power, and when all else fails the people will turn to it as an invincible champion, and an unfailing friend.'"

THE CAUCASIAN does not doubt that Mr. Kerr was in Washington when Senator Vance died, we do not doubt that he saw the Senator just before his death, we do not even doubt that he had a talk with the dying Senator, but there is some room for doubt that the above is a correct report of what the Senator said, if, indeed, he said anything like it. It is not like Senator Vance to say that "the word Democrat stands for human liberty and is immortal" etc. Such talk smacks of the machine, which puts the name of a party above its principles. The last public utterance that came from Senator Vance was that he was fighting Simmons because he was opposed to the machine. It is well known that Senator Vance thought but little of party names and traditions. He believed in the broad principles of Democracy and Republicanism which meant the rule of the people. Did he not say over his own signature in a letter to the Mecklenburg Alliance, that if the Democratic machine continued to ignore the welfare of the people, that the rank and file of the party would walk out of itself and leave nothing but a smell of brimstone and Wall street behind? Was this not a declaration that the Senator would under these conditions walk out of the party and repudiate the gang that held the name of the party?

Beside, Mr. Kerr is already impeached before the people of North Carolina as an infallible witness. He is the man who published a libel in his paper, the Asheville Citizen, against Capt. W. S. Barnes, the Secretary of the State Alliance. The court record shows that Mr. Barnes sued Mr. Kerr and got judgment.

THE CAUCASIAN believes that if Senator Vance could rise from his grave that he would greatly modify that claimed interview, if he did not repudiate it entirely. That interview sounds just like it was manufactured for the use of the Democratic machine in North Carolina—it does not sound like Vance.

It would be amusing if it were not so disgusting and contemptible to see papers and politicians that were a few months ago abusing and persecuting Senator Vance, now talking his virtues and shedding great crocodile tears over his death. They pretend to mourn while in the bottom of their hearts they rejoice. They are fooling no one but themselves. The people can distinguish crocodile tears from the genuine article. If they had known that he would die before the next campaign they would have heaped praise on him. But the machine made war on him and deliberately went to work to manufacture sentiment against him in every quarter of the State to try to break his influence with the people. Nearly every day before his death there were telegrams and communications in the daily papers from different quarters of the State saying that the people who had once loved Vance were now blaming him for fighting Simmons. This is what made Vance say that he was fighting Simmons because he was opposed to the machine.

DANGER FROM PARTISAN AND MONOPOLY JUDGES.

John Randolph, the famous Virginia congressman, said in the constitutional convention of his State in 1830, that if the liberties of this country were destroyed it would be by the Samsons of the Judiciary. This prediction seems in course of fulfillment. The amount of court-made law now being thrust upon the people is alarming. Judges appointed by the same power, holding office by virtue of the same constitution and construing the same laws, differ as radically in their interpretation as if they lived in foreign countries. Not content with the statutes, by virtue of which alone they hold their positions, they go out of their way to "make law." And, what is more alarming, judges of equal rank and jurisdiction decide the same points diametrically opposite to each other. Look at the recent decision of Judge Grosscup which practically kills the Inter-State Commerce Commission. Look at the recent monopoly decision of Federal Judge Jenkins. Look at our own Supreme court, and see how their decision made the Election law to suit the State machine.

The French government has fallen into the hands of thieves. The gold bugs have captured it, and passed a bill issuing $40,000,000 gold bonds. When the bonds were offered for sale, the scramble among the gold bugs to get the bonds was terrific. Ninety-seven times as many bonds were applied for by the speculators as the government issued. The London gold bugs were very anxious to get the bonds, and would have taken one hundred times as many. This is where the money of this country has gone. It has been drained from the people through Wall street to London. The man who sits in the White House as the President of these United States is the agent of these gamblers and helping to rob his own people. Who wants to give the Democratic party another chance?

HOW IS THIS FOR AN ADMISSION?

The Richmond Dispatch on last Sunday in a long editorial, trying to explain why the people were leaving the Democratic party says:

The unredeemed pledges which the Democrats made on the silver question in their Chicago platform are considered by other persons as having been the moving cause of the latest Democratic disasters. But this could hardly be the case, seeing that those pledges were so ambiguously expressed as to carry one meaning to the minds of bimetallists and a totally different meaning to the minds of the monometallists.

This sounds very much like some editorials that THE CAUCASIAN has been writing. But when we charge the very thing that the Dispatch admits (that the Chicago platform is a double-face dodge, written to deceive) the machine papers in this State have denied it.

"The only hope to save the Democratic party is the passage of the Income tax act." — News-Observer-Chronicle.

What an admission! The Income tax was not in the Chicago platform. The People's party is the only one that had the courage to champion it. And now the only thing that will save the Democratic party is enact into law the platform of the People's party. Let the good work go on. If they steal our platform we will feel toward them like we did toward a man who once stole a Bible from us. We will hope that the article stolen will cure the disease.

SUBLIME CHEEK.

"The public eye is now turned to the crank Coxey, with his band moving towards Washington, and the dozen or so of other bands pointing the same direction from different sections. Republican editors are sneering at or scolding at these unique 'armies,' but they should do neither. They should speak of them gently and treat them kindly, because the Republican party is responsible for their existence, and for the existence of numerous other productions of this generation, some of which are entitled to less tolerance than these crank-led, deluded 'armies.'"—Wilmington Star.

For sublime cheek, the above takes the cake. Admit that the Republican party is responsible for every unjust law on the statute books, yet the Republican party is not to-day in power and could not repeal those laws if it so desired. The Democrats are to-day in power. They have charge of every branch of the government. They have not repealed those "Coxey army" producing laws. They are not trying to do so. Their sin of omission is now even greater than the Republican sin of commission. They have in fact made things worse. A Democratic congress has shown itself entirely incompetent to correct the evils. They should at once adjourn and go home. It is the only thing left for them to do.

In Kansas some time ago, a democratic orator rose to speak and seeing several populist in the crowd, referred to them and asked: "What were you before you became populist?" A farmer on the back seat, rose and said: "Just like you are now, a d——old fool."

Crush the machine and save the State.

THE EFFECT OF THE DECISION.

"THE CAUCASIAN asks if we 'approve the decision of the Supreme Court that makes it the fault of the voter if the Registrar fails to register the voter right, when he does not refuse to give the proper information.'

"We would not approve such a decision if such a one were made; but we do not understand that any such decision has been made. And we think we know what decision has been made."—News-Observer-Chronicle, April 12th.

For the benefit of Capt. Ashe and the public we will quote again from the decision of the Supreme Court.

"It was the duty of the elector to make the answers as specific as the statutes requires them, and that the Registrar, if he read the headings calculated to elicit the requisite answers, certainly did all that the law required of him."

THE CAUCASIAN contends that the above decision makes it the fault of the voter (who has not refused to give the proper information) if the Registrar fails to register him right.

Judge Clark and the late Judge Davis both held the same opinion. We quote the following from their protest which they filed against the majority decision of the court. The case before the court was where a voter in answer to the question where he was born said: "North Carolina." The Registrar did not ask him for the county but simply put down "North Carolina," and then on the day of election he was challenged because the county was not given.

Judges Clark and Davis dissenting from the opinion of the majority of the court said:

"The response giving 'North Carolina' as the place of birth is indefinite. But it was error in the court to hold, as a matter of law, that per se this was the fault of the voter and invalidated the vote given by him. Whether it was so, or not, depended upon the facts of the case. If the Registrar, when such response was given, had asked for a fuller and more definite response, and this had been refused or not given, then there would have been conduct on the part of the person offering to register which might justly be held as sufficient proof to deprive him of the right to vote. But the Registrar is the office of the law. He is appointed to make the inquiries and set down the replies. When, in response to the inquiry as to the place of birth, the Elector, in good faith, and thinking he had complied with all that was required of him, responded 'North Carolina' he was guilty of no disobedience of law which deprived him of the right to vote. If the response was not sufficiently definite, the representative of the law, the registrar duly appointed, sworn and paid to perform the duty of taking the registration, should have asked the elector to respond more particularly, and if the registrar failed to do so, the neglect of duty was on the part of the registrar. The elector might well be justified in taking the acquiescence of the officier as a representative of the law that the answer was a full compliance with the requirements of the law. Any other view, it would seem, would make the registration of voters not an impartial observance of regulations to protect the electorial franchises and to prevent frauds upon it, but would furnish opportunities whereby the trusting, the unwary, the unskilled or the ignorant would be deprived of the constitutional right of exercising the right of voting."

This is pretty strong language to come from two members of the Supreme court in disapproval which amounts to condemnation of the action of a majority of the court.

They say that the decision makes it the fault of the voter, if the Registrar fails to register the voter right, when he (the voter) has not refused to give the proper information. They also say that such a decision instead of regulating the registration protecting the election franchises, actually furnishes opportunities for fraud and corruption. Can Capt. Ashe show that Judges Clark and Davis were wrong? If he does not then THE CAUCASIAN has established its case.

SUGAR COATED POISON.

"The outflow of gold has again begun, and the Federal treasury is being called on to supply the European demand. After a little while there will be a new cry raised for the issue of bonds, to buy the gold back, and that process will be continued from time to time until the policy which has long been maintained at the treasury is discarded. When men come to the treasury to draw gold for export they ought to be paid in silver dollars. But as a matter of fact, the government should not be engaged in a banker's business. Such affairs should be left with the banks, and the government should do a strictly treasury business; collect its taxes and pay its debts. Bless us, how far this country has drifted from its constitutional moorings!—N-O-Chronicle, April 24."

The first part of the above editorial is all right, but it is simply used as a sugar coating for the monopolistic poison contained in the last three sentences Thos. Jefferson, the founder of Democracy and the great defender of a constitutional government of the people and for the people, contended that money should be issued by the people through their representatives in congress. He said that banks of issue were most dangerous measure to the liberties and prosperity of the people. If Thos. Jefferson was a Democrat what is Capt. Ashe, the editor of the N-O-Chronicle? If Capt. Ashe is a Democrat, then Thos. Jefferson was a People's party man.

TWO CASES IN POINT.

Last week 500 unemployed workmen who were marching on to join Coxey's army captured a freight train at Butte, Minnesota. They had been trying for four days to get transportation and not being able to bring the railroad men to terms, one of their own number who was an engineer, mounted the engine, the 500 got in the freight cars and the train pulled out for Washington City. A number of officers and deputies got on special train furnished by the railroad and put out after the first train. When the officers overtook the freight train they fired on the unemployed, killing one man. The Coxeyites returned the fire driving back the officers. Then the Governor of the State wired President Cleveland to order out United States soldiers to capture the train of 500. President Cleveland issued the order. The U. S. soldiers captured the train and the men are now under arrest.

On the same day at Terre Haute, Indiania, a band of 300 unemployed chartered a train. When they got their baggage, horses, blankets, provisions, etc. on the cars, the train suddenly pulled out leaving the whole army in the city without anything. If these men were to telegraph President Cleveland to order out United States soldiers to capture the train and return their stolen property, does any one believe that he would respond as he did in the other case? All the gold bug papers published the first incident under big headlines, but they do not mention the latter.

But aside from the local incidents; the proportions of this unemployed movement is daily increasing to alarming proportions. But the causes that have put these tens of thousands of men out of employment are the things that to-day need attention from every patriot. What are our law makers in Washington doing to remove theses causes. Every thing they have done so far has tended to make the causes greater instead of less.

The condition of affairs is alarming. The whole history of the world does not show so much suffering and want in a land of plenty. The greatest criminals on earth to-day are those who are responsible for these conditions, save and except and those who have the full power to correct these conditions and do not.

Let the people put another Andrew Jackson in the White House to fight the money power and more men like Stewart, Allen and Peffer in the Senate and like Tom Watson, Jerry Simpson, and Lafe Pence in the House, and the last one of the accused laws that are making tramps and paralysing all business will be wiped from the statute books.

Democrats continued to advise Republicans to stay in their party. They seemed to be very much concerned lest some Republicans should turn crazy and join the People's party. It is just as THE CAUCASIAN has frequently said, the machines of the two old parties are together, they want to keep up a sham battle over side issues while the money power and the monopolies rob the people. The machine politicians of both sides get their pay from the same counter for keeping up this monkey fight to fool and divide the people. There will never be any more good times till the People's party drive both machines from power.

Dr. J. H. Naftel and Walter L. Bragg, of Mountgomery, Ala. faught a duel to the bitter end on the 22nd. A little discourtesy was the cause, and the death of Bragg, and serious injuries to Naftel was the result.

THE HAND OF PROVIDENCE.

The action of the Democratic (?) administration and the condition of the country are more powerful advocates for the People's party than any tongue or pen. God moves in a mysterious way. He is now allowing the enemies of good government to run to great extremes to the sore distress of the people. But it may be that only in such a cruel school of experience could the people be aroused to their danger, could the citizens be made to realize that there is a higher political duty than to blindly vote his party ticket, could be made to see that the real fight is no longer between parties but between the people and monopoly. If this cruel experience will teach this great lesson and cause men whose interests are the same to join under a common banner and make a common fight for honest government, then truly these hard times are a blessing. We had to learn this lesson now or learn it later and at still greater cost. The Lord allowed Pharoh to very cruelly oppress the children of Israel, that they might themselves be aroused to throw off the yoke of bondage. If Pharoah had made their burdens only a little heavier each year, they might have continued to bear them forever. Their children might today be slaves to the descendants of Pharoah. We believe that the hand of Providence is behind this movement.

Greece has recently been treated to a series of earthquake shocks which have been very destructive to life and property.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning it are due to his efforts.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

Ward Nominations.

The respective wards nominated for aldermen the following Democratic candidates:

First Ward—Messrs. J. H. Hill and W. R. Hinnant; with Mr. W. Stanley as committeeman.

Second Ward—Messrs. F. K. Borden and Sol Weil; with Mr. Junius Slocumb as committeeman.

Fourth Ward—Messrs. E. G. Porter, J. J. Robinson and J. W. Lamb; with Dr. W. H. H. Cobb as committeeman.

Fifth Ward—Mr. W. D. Creech, with Mr. A. B. Hollowell as committeeman.

Y. M. C. A. ANNIVERSARY.

The local Y. M. C. A. celebrated its sixth anniversary last Sunday night in the First Baptist church. The exercises were presided over by the President, C. J. Rivenbark; and the singing led by a male choir.

After the opening prayer and reading of the Scriptures, the statistical reports for the year were read by the President. Dr. Creasy, of Charlotte, then delivered an address from the text: "Where withal shall a young man cleanse his way; by taking heed there according to Thy way." At the conclusion of the address, Mr. Levister, chairman of the Finance Committee, made a statement to the effect that the expenses for the year would be $1,100, $700 of which was already pledged. Additional pledges were secured to the amount of $135, leaving still $265 to be raised to carry on the work of the Association for the ensuing year.

A large audience turned out and the address of Dr. Creasy was practical, thoughtful, and elevating.

PEOPLE'S WARD MEETING.

(Contributed.)

First Ward reform meeting held at Mrs. Robinsons store on corner of John and Vine streets on Monday night April 30th '94, was duly organized by electing A. P. Holland chairman and Rufus Ham Secretary and the following proceedings were had therein. W. S. O. B. Robinson and A. T. Grady were put in nomination for Alderman of 1st Ward and was nominated by acclamation. Whereupon on motion the following was submitted to the convention for its consideration and was unanimously adopted.

It is my pleasure to preside over a convention of Tax payers who have the manhood to proclaim their Independence of rings, cliques and combines and class Legislation, a small body of men who have the Independence to say we are free men and have no fears of rings, city patronage or anything else to debar us from our duty to our families or our city.

1. That we oppose the futher oppropriation of city finances to the clearing up lands under the false name of city park or the canaling of the lands against or surrounding the city under pretence of city drainage.

2. We would like to know when the $20,000 expended last year went! The financial exhibit does not give satisfaction.

3. We are opposed to the payment of $500 for city clerk when the work could be done by the Mayor who has plenty of time to do the work.

4. We further oppose the $500 to what is called "street foreman," which duty might be performed by the Chief of Police.

5. We further oppose fees being allowed the Mayor and policemen, as it is an inducement to unnecessary arrest and conviction; and further oppose the rental of private property at exorbitant prices when the city owns property of its own which is going to decay by neglect.

6. We favor the equalization of the Merchant tax, so that the rich merchant pays pro rata to the poor merchant.

We are opposed to the notorious hog law as now existing and consider it a slap at the poor man. And on account of the alarming extent of hydrophobia, we oppose the running at large of dogs on the streets during any period of the year.

The Southern Baptist Convention will hold its next session at Dallas, Texas, commencing May 11th. Judge W. T. Faircloth, of Goldsboro is one of the delegates for North Carolina. He will leave on May the 8th.

We are glad to see a movement on foot to erect a monument to the late Senator. The Charlotte Observer says that it is the wish of Mrs. Vance that the monument be place over the grave at Asheville. Then it should be placed there. Two weeks ago THE CAUCASIAN said in an editorial that the people of the State should at once erect a monument to Senator Vance. We further said that we were ready to co operate to that end, and we will as soon as the funds are raise for the Polk Monument. North Carolina has not in the past shown the proper State pride for its great men who have passed over the river. But it is never too late to mend, so now let us do our duty to the memory of Polk and Vance.

VANCE AT CONBORD.

How One C. G. Montgomery Got the Drop on the Memorial Meeting.

(Special Cor. to THE CAUCASIAN.)

Concord, N. C., April 24, '94.

EDITOR CAUCASIAN.

According to previous motion, the court house bell rang last Saturday evening, calling the citizens together in memorial service of respect, to our Senator Hon. Zebulon B. Vance. The venerable R. W. Allison Esq. was called to the chair, and Mr. J. B. Sherril requested to act as Secretary. Without any invitation, Charles G. Montgomery, the defeated aspirant for the Indian Agency, under the Gold-bug Wall Street President, with indecent haste, constituted himself a committee, and stepped into the bar, drew from his pocket a series of, Whereases and Resolves, cut and dried for the occasion, applauding the good and noble Statesmanship of Hon. Z. B. Vance; a compliment Hon. Z. B. Vance could not reciprocate if the case was reversed. Suitable remarks were made by Messrs Hal Puryun, J. L. Crowell. T. H. Ludwig and others. A good audience, including many ladies was present. Hon. Z. B. Vance was held in high esteem by ALL, and his name will be written in history as a Statesman, on the upper round of the ladder. It can truly be said, that when the clods of the valley fell and filled up his grave, when every cheek was wet with the tear of sorrow; and every heart was made to feel that North Carolina had lost her most gifted son, that in that silent tomb lies the lifeless remains of one whose nature and life was without reproach; lies the mortal remains of one who scorned the offer of a bribe, lies an honest man and an honest politician. He has left a monument more durable to every North Carolinian, than brass or marble. Peace to his ashes.

J. W. McHaffy.

The Charlotte Observer is constantly crying out "Fusion" as a great scare-crow at the Peoples Party and the Republicans. Yet it seems from its editorial colums that it is courting both wings of the Republican party. In an editorial on last Friday it says: "It affords us pleasure to say J. C. Logan Harris would make a strong canvass, a strong candidate, and a Congressman who, in point of ability, would recall the best days of the State." In an editorial on last Sunday it says: "The Gazette, a very nice paper published at Raleigh by colored men," &c. The above may mean that the Democrats will offer Loge Harris the nomination for Congress and the Gazette will be invited to join in and support Loge and the remainder of the Democratic ticket.

IN SYMPATHY WITH THE MOVEMENT.

Henderson Gold Leaf (Dem.)

"Our readers are aware of the efforts being made to erect a monument to the memory of the late Col. L. L. Polk. We publish on the fourth page of the Gold Leaf this week the address of Hon. Marion Butler, president of the National Farmers' Alliance, directing attention to this matter and calling upon all sub-Alliances to take up collections for this purpose on April 28th, Col. Polk's birthday. As a North Carolinian, and one who was greatly honored by the people at large as well as citizens of this State, we are in sympathy with the movement and hope to see the object carried to a successful issue."

The editor of THE CAUCASIAN takes this means of thanking the editor of the Gold Leaf for his broad and commendable spirit.

PEOPLE'S PARTY CLUBS.

The rules and regulations for governing the organization of the People's Party Club are as follows:

First, There shall be neither fees, dues, signs, grips, pass-words, or obligation in a Club.

Second, Clubs may be started in any locality by any reputable person, and organize with five or more members.

Third, The meetings of the clubs shall be public. Those who are not members should be invited to attend. Those who attend should be urged to join.

Fourth, The conditions of membership shall be opposition to the financial policy of Grover Cleveland and the Democratic party and a promise to vote with the People's Party to secure a legislature next fall that will give the people a free ballot and fair count.

Fifth, Each club shall have a President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer. In all other matters each club may make its own rules and regulations.

Sixth, As soon as a club is organized the Secretary should fill out the following blank and send at once to Marion Butler, Goldsboro, N. C.

PEOPLE'S PARTY CLUB.

County.....

Township.....

Name of Club.....

No. of Members.....

President.....

P. O.....

Secretary.....

PEOPLE'S PARTY CLUBS.

Every mail brings reports from every quarter of the State of People's party clubs being organized. A letter just received from Iredell County says that a club was organized last Saturday with 19 members and that nine of who voted the Democratic ticket last year. The reports from over half of the clubs state that a good percent of the names enrolled are men who voted the Democratic ticket in 1892. This proves that thousands of the men, who said that they would give the Democrats a chance to test the truthfulness of their fair promises, meant just what they said and will not be trifled with any more.

PRO-MEMORIAL.

Pluto and Plutus.

[Written for THE CAUCASIAN.]

Pluto Cleveland and Plutus Carlisle—
A couple rich and rare,
Are plotting deviltry all the while
To oppress us everywhere.

Now Pluto was the chief in Hell,
With impulses firm and rash;
While Plutus with infernal futures to sell,
Kept things square and handled the cash

But after a long and weary reign,
The devils became disgusted;
And deposed the rascals with their game,
Declaring Hell's government busted.

This lonely pair, with utmost haste,
To our inviting country came;
While Hell in horror stands aghast,
And devils shout: "O, shame!"

In Cleveland Pluto took his stand,
To defend his rights erswhile;
While Plutus, always proud and grand,
Located in Carlisle.

To be continued, provided Zeke Bilkins don't take umbrage at the seeming reflection on his and Capt. Coke's friends.

Yours in the heat,

South River Baptist Institute Passes Resolutions on the Death of Senator Vance.

Autryville, N. C., April 20, '94.

We, the committee appointed by the Gradian Literary Society of the South River Baptist Institute, to draft suitable resolutions expressive of the regret of the members of the Society for the death of that distinguished and patriotic citizen, Senator Zebulon Baird Vance, do

Resolve 1st, That while we bow in humble submission to Him who doeth all things well, we can but lament and deplore the death of this true and patriotic citizen, and that we tender the family of the deceased our deepest and most heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement.

2nd, That we remember him as a soldier, as governor of our State and more especially as our "war Governor," as our representative in Congress, as United States Senator of our State, and with what devotion he stood by us both in prosperity and adversity.

3rd, That in the death of this distinguished citizen, the State suffers an irreparable loss, and an intellect seldom equalled and never surpassed.

4th, That we point with pride to his long and useful career, and that we hold him up to our children as a true and patriotic statesman, and a fitting example for their emulation.

5th, That during a long and useful life in which he saw the State in peril and danger, in peace and prosperity, nothing ever stained his escutcheon, either in private or public affairs.

6th, That we heartily favor the erection of a monument in Capitol Square to his memory; thus placing him in the front ranks of all our great statesmen, a position which he justly deserves, and that we pledge ourselves to the support of same.

7th, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to The Caucasian and the Sampson Democrat with a request to publish the same and that our Secretary be required to keep a copy of them upon his book.

ISHAM ROYAL,
K. G. AVERITT,
C. M. HALL,
Committee.

It is your duty to yourself to get rid of the foul accumulation in your blood this spring. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine you need to purify, vitalize and enrich your blood. That tired feeling which affects nearly every one in the spring is driven off by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great spring medicine and blood purifier.

Hood's Pills become the favorite cathartic with everyone who tries them.

ZEBULON B. VANCE.

Resolutions Adopted by Western Prong Farmers' Alliance.

Western Prong Farmers' Alliance met at Clarkton, N. C., April 24th, and adopted the following resolutions, viz:

Whereas, In the death of Senator Zebulon B. Vance, North Carolina has lost her most illustrious son, the country a profound thinker and patriotic statesman, and we, a bold and fearless defender of our rights

Resolved, That we deeply mourn the death of Senator Zebulon Baird Vance, realizing that we, the State, and the country, have lost an incorruptible champion.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, and for publication to the Wilmington papers, the Goldsboro CAUCASIAN, and the Progressive Farmer.

Real merit is characteristic of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and is manifested every day in the remarkable cures the medicine accomplishes.

CABARRUS COUNTY.

Mr. Editor:—At quarterly meeting Carrabus County Alliance recently held, the following resolutions were introduced by Rocky Mount sub-alliance. These resolutions were ordered sent back to the different sub-alliances to be discussed in open meeting and report at next regular quarterly meeting of County Alliance when this question will be discussed in open meeting when everybody can be heard. Resolutions are as follows:

Resolved 1st, That the jurisdiction of our magistrates should be enlarged so as to make our Judiciary system less expensive to the taxpayers and more easily accessible to the common people.

Resolved 2nd, That the magistrates should be elected by the people.

Resolved 3rd, That the Homestead law should be repealed or modified.

Resolved 4th, That our public school system should, if possible, be made more useful and efficient.

The secretary was instructed to ask the Progressive Farmer and THE CAUCASIAN to publish the above resolutions and to ask the sub-alliances of the States to consider these questions, carry them to their County Alliance and be prepared to discuss there matters fully should they come before next meeting of the State Alliance. JNO. A. SIMS, Sec.

MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Georgia.

DEAR SIRS—I wish to give my testimonial in regard to your valuable medicine, P. P. P., for the cure of rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, biliousness, etc. In 1861 I was attacted with bilious muscular rheumatism, and have been a martyr to it ever since. I tried all medicines I ever heard of, and all the doctors in reach, but I found only temporary relief; but pains were so bad at times that I did not care whether I lived or died. My digestion became so impaired that everything I ate disagreed with me. My wife also suffered so intensely with dyspepsia that her life was a burden to her; she would be confined to her bed for weeks at the time; she also suffered greatly from giddiness and loss of sleep. Some time in March I was advised to take P. P. P., and before we (my wife and I) had finished the second bottle of P. P. P., our digestion began to improve. My pains subsided so much that I have been able to work, and am feeling like doing what I haven't done before in a number of years. We will continue taking P. P. P. until we are entirely cured, and will cheerfully recommend it to all suffering humanity.

Yours very respectfully,
J. S. DUPRISS.

In lover's glen my first you'll find,
In Lordly towers my second twine,
In Scotland fair my third is found,
In dungeons dark my fourth is bound,
My fifth is found by silver streams,
My sixth must pass through pleasant dreams,
In merry France my seventh clings,
On Africa's shore my eighth now sings,
In earnest prayer my ninth must be,
My tenth abides in warrior free,
My eleventh remains in sweet first love,
My twelfth in works of God above,
My whole you'll find the name of he
Who taught us to be wise and free.

Mr. Editor:—I will once more attempt to write to the "Children's Corner" being much interested in it.

I will ask and answer some questions:

The word "cousin" is found in the Bible in the 1st chapter, 36th verse of St. Luke.

Nebuchadnezzar ate grass like an ox before his death.

What is meant by the earth being divided in the days of Peleg?

Where do we read "I said in my haste all men are liars."?

Who said "Man is born unto trouble as the sparks fly upward."?

I will close, Yours truly,
A Country Girl.

Goldsboro, N. C., April 7, '94.

Mr. Editor:—I have seen so many letters from the boys and girls of our country that I will write a short one

I like to see what the young folks have to say in their column. I will ask some questions:

How old was Sarah, Abraham's wife, when she died?

How much money did the Revolutionary war cost the United States?

What was John Q. Adams' last words?

What is the largest island in the world and where is it?

Your unknown friend,
Bessie Wooten.

China Grove, N. C., April 19, '94.

Mr. Editor:—I am the same little crippled girl who wrote some time ago, and I again seek admittance to the "Children's Corner."

First I want to say that I was at Rowan County Alliance and I never did enjoy myself so much. The County Alliance met with Frick's sub-alliance, and those good people certainly know how to entertain a County Alliance, and what I enjoyed so much was the dinner and nice music which was furnished by a well trained choir; Miss Lillie Lingle was organist.

The matter of securing aid for me to go back to the Surgical Institute in Atlanta, Ga., was brought up and a liberal contribution was made, and I take this means of thanking the many friends. I will get a memorandum book and keep a record of all who contribute to remember and I shall cherish that memory as long as I shall live. It will cost $55 per month, not including anything but treatment and board.

I will close by saying I love to read the "Children's Corner." Much success to THE CAUCASIAN.

Respectfully,
Ada Stirewalt.

P. S.—Will some one please answer my question which I asked in December: "Why cannot there be a Surgical Institute in North Carolina?" A. S.

Ringing Resolutions Passed on the Political Situation.

At a meeting of People's party, No. 1, in Stewartsville township, April 6th, 1894, the following Preamble and Resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, Treachery, bribery and corruption among the leaders of the old Democratic and Republican parties, makes it necessary for the laborers and honest tillers of the soil to assign the bosses to oblivion and organize a new party in order to insure Reform, and

Whereas, While we were working in the ranks of the old Democratic and Republican parties every candidate tried to "run with the hare and hold with the hounds," and when placed upon the watchtower, invariably went to the plutocratic element and when called upon "Watchman, what of the night" would answer "All right up here, you plow on." And

Whereas, We have published to the world our demans (not petitions) we say to the two old parties, in the language of Chas. Carroll in signing the Declaration of Inpendence: "Let King George and the whole world know," that as the majority and intelligence of the country is in the ranks of the People's reform party, we expect to have a fair vote and an honest count. Therefore, be it

WOMAN'S SPHERE

Company Manners.

"I wonder why parents do not teach their children good manners and the compel them to practice them at home," said a young man of about twenty years of age to an older companion.

"Because they are to careless and indolent and have too little home good manners themselves," was the reply. "Even the most obtuse people have too much sense of decency to be perpetually nagging at their children, for what they do themselves. Beside, they get so accustomed to such things they do not mind them at all.

"The home manners of some really intelligent people are something dreadful, and children cannot be blamed if they copy them. I can tell almost exactly what the home life of a family is if I can have the children with me for an afternoon and during a meal. They may try to keep up company manners, but evidences of the real life will slip out the best they can do.

Three Things to Know.

There are three lessons which all mothers should impress upon the minds of their daughters: first, to speak nothing but the absolute truth; second, never to utter unpalatable truths when their utterance can do no good: and third, to shun, as they would shun the small-pox, all gossipmongers and slanderers—and these lessons should be taught early.

French and American Women.

French and American women, according to Max O'Rell, have certain striking points of resemblance, especially in the matter of tact and adaptability to circumstances. If a French milliner were to be placed among cultivated people for an hour, she would be able to talk, walk and behave like the most refined society woman in the room. The same is true, says our French critic, of an American woman of no social advantages, who would, in an amazingly short time, perform the honors as mistress of the White House with ease and grace. English women rarely adapt themselves easily to social positions to which they have not been bred.

TAKE PAINS WITH YOUR WORK.

"Don't slight your work, girls," said a lady to her daughters and some young ladies who were trying their first experiments in making pretty summer dresses.

"There is nothing creditable about a half-done job, and even though it is done in a hurry, that is excuse for slip-shod work. And, indeed, it is my experience that hurry makes more work than it saves, for you must almost always do hurried things over and refit here and redrape there. I have tried it and am satisfied that the old adage, 'the more haste the less speed,' was intended especially to apply to amateur dressmakers; and as you are all learning, it is well worth while to learn correctly. It is the sheerest nonsense to think that the ability to make dresses is a gift and that natural genius alone is sufficient to enable one to turn out elegant and stylish costumes. To do good work, one must have some ideas of mathematical accuracy and symmery. It takes good sense, care, study and the utmost painstaking to make any garment in a workmanlike manner. First of all, see that the febric, whether for the outside or lining, is straight, and not drawn out of shape or laid on the cutting-board crooked. No amout of care can straighten a portion of a waist once it is badly cut. Be certain that the threads of lining and outside run the same way, and never cut a lining crosswise and the outside of the goods lengthwise, or vice versa. The two will not 'give' alike, the result will be either wrinkles or a certain stiffness which is an unfailing mark of amateur work.

"Get a good pattern. It is well to have a pattern of waist lining fited by an expert dressmaker. This, with the ordinary cut paper patterns, is quite sufficient. Unless one is an expert, it is not quite safe to depend entirely on the average cut-paper model for fit. They are admirable for ideas and suggestions, but of course, do not give any idea of other than a general fit, and no peculiarities of figure are allowed for. It pays to have a lining cut and fitted by some one who understands the business and will do it well. Having this lining, examine it carefully and see if the edges of the seams are exactly even, if not, make them so, then cut tiny V-shaped notches at intervals through both edges of the seams as a guide for joining the pieces again. Take the pieces apart and place them on the goods for the lining of the waist. Adjust them in several ways, taking care to plan so as to economize the febric as much as possible. Cut out carefully, following the outline of the pattern, but do not cut the edges or you destroy the guides for putting the lining together again. When all of the sections are cut out, mark the line for sewing them. This is best done with a tracing wheel, which should be part of the contents of every well furnished sewing basket. Cut notches in the new lining exactly corresponding with those in the pattern. Then baste the lining together with moderately coarse thread and stitches not over one-eighth of an inch long. It is a mistake to suppose that a few pins and three or four stitches in a seam are sufficient.

"After all seams are carefully basted, try on the lining and fit it as accurately as possible. Then rip the lining apart and prepare to cut the outside material. A carefully fitted lining may save a goodly amount of cloth.

"Be careful to place each piece so as to economize in material. Have every section exactly straigh with the grain of the goods. Then, when all are placed to the best advantage, pin the pieces securely and begin to baste outside and lining together. Remember that a garment well basted is half made, and be not sparing of stitches. After the first piece is basted cut the outside, being careful not to clip the edges and destroy the notches. Leave nothing to guesswork. Mark every point, and know why you do everything. Work slowly, and never leave a seam or fold until it is as nearly perfect as possible. Only in this way will you ever learn to do first-class work."

Chinese Ladies in Washington.

When the ladies of the Chinese legation at Washington go out on the street for a walk, they are objects of universal attention. Their poor little feet are mere scraps, and they cannot walk, but hobble along like cripples, clinging to a friendly fence or post if they are jostled, and sometimes tumbling all together like a row of bricks. They never go singly and rarely extend their walk beyond sight of their own home. A servant stands in the front of the Legation house—he is an Irishman, by the way—and keeps a watchful eye on all their movements so long as they are in the street. They do not walk abreast lest one should fall and upset the others. They are ruddy of cheek, and bright and pleasant to look upon, and they appear to be cracking stupendous Chinese jokes about the passers-by who stare at at them too rudely. These aristocratic ladies are so clumsy, with their fat hans and little feet, that they are quite unable to dress themselves, but require the constant service of a maid. They appear to greatly enjoy the freedom of their American life.

Mr. Blinkers:—"Slept like a top. I feel first-rate."

Doctor:—"How many doses of that opiate did you take?"

Mr. Blinkers (in surprise):—"I didn't take any. I gave it to the baby."

WARING'S PERIL.

By CAPT. CHARLES KING, U.S. ARMY.

[Copyright, 1893, by J. B. Lippincott & Co. and published by special arrangement.]

CHAPTER THIRD CONTINUED.

"Here, my man!" said Waring, in low tone, "you have earned no five dollars, and you know it. Get your cab out, come to Mme. d'Hervilly's, where you were called, and whatever is your due will be paid you; but no more of this swearing or threatening—not another word of it."

"I want my money, I say, and I mean to have it. I'm not talking to you; I'm talking to the lady that hired me."

"But I have not the money. It is for my mother—Mme d'Hervilly—to pay. You will come there."

"I want it now, I say. I've got to hire teams to get my cab out. I got stalled here carrying you and your child, and I mean to have my pay right now, or I'll know the reason why. Your swell friend's got the money. It's none of my business how you pay him."

But that ended the colloquy. Waring's fist landed with resounding whack under the cabman's jaw, and sent him rolling down into the mud below. He was up, floundering and furious, in less than a minute, cursing horribly and groping in the pocket of his overcoat.

"It's a pistol, lieutenant. Look out!" cried Jeffers.

There was a flash, a sharp report, a stifled cry from the cab, a scream of terror from the child. But Waring had leaped lightly aside, and before the half-drunken brute could cock his weapon for a second shot he was felled like a dog, and the pistol wrested from his hand and hurled across the levee. Another blow crashed full in his face as he strove to find his feet, and this time his muddled senses warned him it were best to lie still.

Two minutes more, when he lifted his battered head and strove to stanch the blood streaming from his nostrils, he saw the team driving briskly away up the crest of the levee; and, overcome by maudlin contemplation of his foeman's triumph and his own wretched plight, the cabman sat him down and wept aloud.

And to his succor presently there came ministering angels from across the muddy way, one with a brogue, the other in a bandanna, and between the two he was escorted across a dry path to the magnolia-fringed inclosure, comforted with soothing applications without and within, and encouraged to tell his tale of woe. That he should wind it up with vehement expression of his ability to thrash a thousand swells like the one who had abused him and a piratical prophecy that he'd drink his heart's blood within the week was due not so much to confidance in his own powers, perhaps, as to the strength of the whisky with which he had been liberally supplied. Then the lady of the house addressed her Ethiop maid of all work:

"Go you over to Anatole's now, 'Louette. Tell him if any of the byes are there I want 'um. If Dawson is there, from the adjutant's office, I walnut him quick. Tell him it's Mrs. Doyle, and never mind if he's been dhrinkin'; he shall have another dhrop here."

And at her beck there presently appeared three or four besotted-looking specimens in the coarse undress uniform of the day, poor devils absent without leave from their post below and hoping only to be able to beg or steal whisky enough to stupefy them before the patrol should come and drag them away to the guardhouse. Promise of liberal reward in shape of liquor was sufficient to induce three of their number to go out with the fuming cabman and help rescue his wretched brute and trap. The moment they were outside the gate she turned on the fourth, a pallid, sickly man, whose features were delicate, whose hands were white and slender, and whose whole appearance, despite glassy eyes and tremulous mouth and limbs, told the pathetic story of better days.

"You're off ag'in, are you? Sure I heerd so, and you're mad for a dhrink now. Can ye write, Dawson, or must I brace you up first?"

An imploring look, an unsteady gesture, alone answered.

"Here, thin, wait! It's absinthe ye need, my buck. Go you into that room now and wash yourself, and I'll bring it and whin the others come back for their whisky I'll tell 'um you've gone. You're to do what I say, now, and Doyle will see you through; if not, it's back to that hell in the guardhouse you'll go, my word on it."

"Oh, for God's sake, Mrs. Doyle—" began the poor wretch, imploringly, but the woman shut him off.

"In there wid you! the others are coming." And, unbarring the front door, she presently admitted the trio returning to claim the fruits of their honest labor.

"Is he gone? Did he tell you what happened?"

"He's gone, yes," answered one; "he's gone to get square with the lieutenant and his cockney dog-robber. He says they both jumped on him and kicked his face in when he was down and unarmed and helpless. Was he lyin'?"

"Oh, they bate him cruel. But did he tell you of the lady—who it was they took from him?"

"Why, sure, the wife of that old Frenchman, Lascelles, that lives below,—her the lieutenant's been sparkin' this three months."

"The very wan, mind ye!" replied the lady of the house, with significant emphasis and glance from her bleary eyes; "the very wan," she finished, with slow nodding accompaniment of the frowzy head. "And that's the kind of gintlemen that undertakes to hold up their heads over soldiers like Doyle. Here, boys, drink now, but be off ag'inst his coming. He'll be here any minute. Take this to comfort ye, but kape still about this till ye see me ag'in—or Doyle. Now run." And with scant ceremony the dreary party was hustled out through a paved courtyard to a gateway opening on a side street. Houses were few and scattering so far below the heart of the city. The narrow strip of land between the great river and the swamp was cut up into walled inclosures, as a rule—abandoned warehouses and cotton presses, moss-grown one-storied frame structures, standing in the midst of desolate fields and decrepit fences. Only among the peaceful shades of the Ursuline convent and the warlike flanking towers at the barracks was there aught that spoke of anything but demoralization and decay. Back from the levee a block or two the double lines of strap-iron stretched over a wooden causeway between parallel wet ditches gave evidence of some kind of a railway, on which, at rare intervals, jogged a sleepy mule with a sleepier driver and a musty old rattletrap of a car—a car butting up against the animal's lazy hocks and rousing him occasionally to ringing and retaliatory kicks. Around the barracks the buildings were closer, mainly in the way of saloons; then came a mile-long northward stretch of track, with wet fields on either side, fringed along the river by solid structures and walled inclosures that told of days more prosperous than those which so closely followed the war. It was to one of these graceless drinking-shops and into the hands of a rascally "dago" known as Anatole that Mrs. Doyle commended her trio of allies, and being rid of them she turned back to her prisoner, their erstwhile companion. Absinthe wrought its work on his meek and pliant spirit, and the shaking hand was nerved to do the woman's work. At her dictation, with such corrections as his better education suggested, two letters were draughted, and with these in her hand she went aloft. In fifteen minutes she returned, placed one of these letters in an envelope already addressed to M. Armand Lascelles, No. — Rue Royale, the other she handed to Dawson. It was addressed in neat and delicate feminine hand to Col. Braxton, Jackson Barracks.

"Now, Dawson, ye can't see her this day, and she don't want ye till you can come over here sober. Off wid ye now to barracks. They're all out at inspection yet, and will be for an hour. Lay this with the colonel's mail on his desk, and thin go you to your own. Come to me this afthernoon for more dhrink if ye can tell me what he said and did when he read it. No! no more liquor now. That'll brace ye till dinner-time, and more would make ye dhrunk."

FERRY AND PIERCE GAZED SILENTLY AFTER HIM.

Miserably he plodded away down the levee, while she, his ruler, throwing on a huge, dirty white sun-bonnet, followed presently in his tracks, and shadowed him until she saw him safely reach the portals of the barracks after one or two fruitless scouts into way side bars in hope of finding some one to treat or trust him to a drink. Then retracing her steps a few blocks, she rang sharply at the lattice gate opening into a cool and shaded inclosure beyond which could be seen the white-pillared veranda of a long, low, southern homestead. A grinning negro boy answered the summons.

"It's you, is it, Alphonse? Is your mistress at home?"

"No; gone town—chez Mme. d'Hervilly."

"Mme. Devillease, is it? Very well, you skip to town wid that note and get it in your master's hands before the cathedral clock strikes twelve, or ye'll suffer. There's a car in t'ree minutes."

And then, well content with her morning's work, the consort of the senior first lieutenant of Light Battery "X" (a dame whose credentials were too clouded to admit of her reception or recognition within the limits of a regular garrison, where, indeed, to do him justice, Mr. Doyle never wished to see her, or, for that matter, anywhere else) betook herself to the magnolia-shaded cottage where she dwelt beyond the pale of military interference, and some hours later sent 'Louette to say to Doyle she wanted him, and Doyle obeyed. In his relief at finding the colonel had probably forgotten the peccadillo for which he expected punishment, in blissful possession of Mr. Waring's sitting-room and supplies now that Waring was absent, the big Irishman was preparing to spend the time in drinking his junior's health and whisky and discoursing upon the enormity of his misconduct with all comers, when Ananias entered and informed him there was a lady below who wished to see him—"lady" being the euphemism of the lately enfranchised for the females of their race. It was 'Louette with the mandate from her mistress, a mandate he dared not disregard.

TRADE MARK.
"Cures when all else fails."

DEAR SIR:—I have always been a great sufferer from Indigestion, Catarrh of the Stomach, and tried all sorts of medicines for years, without relief. I had one severe attack, which gave up to die. I commenced using Electropoise, and within one week I was entirely relieved. I continued its use for twenty-five years, and am to-day in better health than for twenty-five years before. Yours truly, THOMAS E. LEWIS.

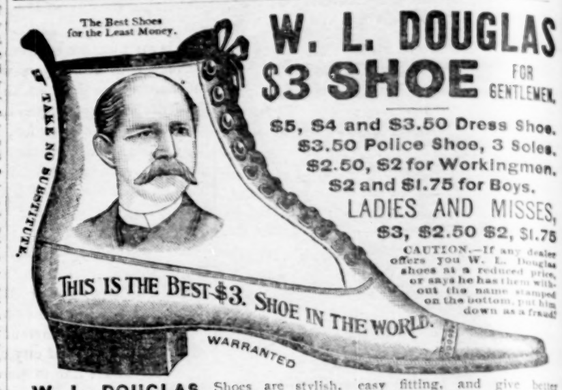
The Best Shoes for the Least Money.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.



$5, $4 and $3.50 Dress Shoe.
$3.50 Police Shoe, 3 Soles.
$2.50, $2 for Workingmen.
$2 and $1.75 for Boys.
LADIES AND MISSES, $3, $2.50 $2, $1.75

CAUTION.—If any dealer offers you W. L. Douglas shoes at a reduced price, or says he has them without the name stamped on the bottom, put him down as a fraud.

W. L. DOUGLAS Shoes are stylish, easy fitting, and give better satisfaction at the prices advertised than any other make. Try one pair and be convinced. The stamping of W. L. Douglas' name and price on the bottom, which guarantees their value, saves thousands of dollars annually to those who wear them. Dealers who push the sale of W. L. Douglas Shoes gain customers, which helps to increase the sales on their full line of goods. They can afford to sell at a less profit, and we believe you can save money by buying all your footwear of the dealer advertised below. Catalogue free upon application. W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

An advertisement may be compared to the electric current. The newspaper is the switchboard. When the advertiser would electrify the public he manipulates the switchboard, and the powerful current which he so thoroughly controls enlivens the community and often shocks or even kills a competitor.

Advertising is the coupling-pin that unites persistence and success.

CANCER Permanently Cured!!!! Home treatment $20 to $35. Send stamp for book. J. B. HARRIS, Port Payne, Ala.

The Pastille FOR WEAK MEN

Made so by too close application to business severe mental strain, Sexual Excesses in middle life, or vicious habits contracted in youth. WEAK, NERVOUS men are victims to Nervous Debility or Exhaustion, Wasting Weakness, Involuntary Losses with Early Decay in Young and Middle Aged. lack of vigor and strength, with sexual organs impaired and weakened prematurely in approaching old age. WHEN WE SAY CURE we speak from knowledge of results in many thousand cases treated and cured in the past fifteen years.

Our method of introducing Prof. MARRIS' SOLUBLE MEDICATED PASTILLE treatment is one which commends itself to all sensible persons—for the reason that we supply it upon their judgment of its value. Nothing in the way of expense beyond a postal card and a few brief sentences stating its need. The postal card for use in sending us their full address and the postage stamp for the letter returning the statement of their case for which we supply them with question blank, to be filled out, and a self-addressed envelope for use in returning it when filled.

Free TRIAL When we receive the statement on blank we prepare eight days treatment and forward it by mail in plain wrapper, prepaying postage. Along with the treatment we send full directions for using. The treatment causes no pain or inconvenience and does not prevent attending to business.

We leave the matter of sending orders entirely with those using the free trial treatment. Having satisfied those sending for it of the merits of our ability to benefit them we feel that they are more largely interested than ourselves in continuing the use of the Pastille. We make the prices as low as possible, and the same to all. They are as follows: $3.00 for one month; $5.00 for two months; $7.00 for three months.

We ask all persons needing treatment to send their address on postal or by letter. All communications confidential and sent to us in plain envelopes.
